Dear Member,

It is with great pleasure that I introduce Tom Richards who has agreed to speak to us on the Eurozone Crisis. Tom is a Senior Investment Analyst & Portfolio Manager with Maitland Investment Services and works in the team responsible for managing approx USD700m of clients' assets. Tom has lived and worked on the island for the best part of four years and is a Chartered Member of the Chartered Institute for Securities & Investment and holds an MSC in International Banking and Finance.

Back when the Eurozone sovereign debt crisis was limited to initial concerns for Ireland and Greece, Spain was seen as a 'fire-break' between the region's periphery and core members. Just a few months later, both Italy and France are being forced to pay higher costs to service their national debt and talk has turned to whether the Eurozone can even survive in its present form.

With many developed countries now staring down the barrel of potential economic disaster, the Isle of Man has historically been in a strong position with uninterrupted economic expansion, low unemployment and healthy national reserves. However, the island is heavily dependent upon access to external trade flows and international goodwill; and the recent re-negotiation of some taxation treaties has left the island having to re-examine spending plans with a rapidly shrinking surplus.

The question is now being asked can the Eurozone muddle through, and what would a second global recession mean for us all? What does the future hold for us here on the Isle of Man?

I look forward to meeting you on the evening and advise you to reserve your places as soon as possible in view of the quality of the speaker and the topic being discussed.

Yours faithfully

Cameron Halsall, Chairman
